The story this week wasn't a price target. It was discipline. Gold ran to the moon, then corrected hard, and split the room down the middle. Gold dropped below $4000 for the first time in months. Everyone says the West dumped gold this quarter. The World Gold Council's data says that's wrong, the selling was narrow, and gold demand surged to historic highs in the third quarter, fueled by purchases from central banks, inflows to ETFs, and activity in the U.S. national debt has reached nearly $40 trillion, and the interest alone now rivals the entire military budget. Gold just closed its worst quarter in more than 13 years, then roared back above $4100 as the new Fed chair signaled he may raise rates. With gold prices down 2.6% this week, U.S. Global Investors CEO Frank Holmes tells With the Presidential Inauguration and the official commencement of Donald Trump's four-year term, many investors are betting on a soft landing. The S&P 500 is pricing in a perfect soft landing, but the physical economy is screaming recession. In this Outlook 2026 special, we explore the challenges ahead.
